Contracts Update 5/28/21 –Tony Wold, ED.D., (Mary Kitchen & Team)

The Elementary Literacy Department is bringing forward 1 contract

- Reading and Writing Project Network:

Reading and Writing Project Network, LLC will partner with WCCUSD and provide:
A Calendar of Conference Days: 12 days of conference days for each K-5 grade level.
Leadership and Teacher Lead Days: A senior leader from the Reading and Writing Project (RWP) will work with K-5 principals for 2 full days to help support a closer alignment between school leadership and curriculum. RWP will work to plan a site-based K-5 2 day coaching; Which will give coaches an opportunity to practice replicable moves that they can use continually in all of their staff development, and it will help them to form a more field-based support group with each other. Each leader of this is able to work with approximately 25 coaches.

Homegrown Institute-Virtual: a 4 day-long event for the teachers and leaders of WCCUSD. This event will provide teachers with an opportunity to become vastly more knowledgeable as teachers of either reading or writing workshops. Sections are in grade cohorts of LK-2, 3-5, and 6.

School-Based PD: RWP will provide 10 days of professional development, 5 designed for K-2 and/or 5 for 3-5 in each of 3 schools.

The Expanded Learning Office is bringing forward one item and one increase:

The Expanded Learning Office oversees the District's 30 school-based expanded learning (historically referred to as "after school") programs. These state and federally funded Tier 1 programs are administered by the California Department of Education through the Expanded Learning Division and must begin on the first day of school and operate every day that school is in session, from the end of the core instructional day until 6:00pm.

These continuing service contracts are for the expanded learning lead agency partners who are charged with the day-to-day operations. While the number of students served varies by individual site's grant awards, the core components of the program remain the same: academic literacy and structured homework support; enrichment activities focused on skill development; nutrition; and physical activity.

The quality of these programs is overseen the District's Expanded Learning Office and ensured through the continuous quality improvement process (CQI) which relies on a evidenced based assessment tool, the School Age Program Quality Assessment (for grades K-6th) and the Youth Program Quality Assessment (for grades 7th-12th). The Expanded Learning Office works with an external evaluator to assess the experiences of student participants along with family satisfaction with the program.

What we are bringing forward at this time are the expanded learning contracts which share the same AMOs. The prices reflected are for 86% of the total grant awards which will go to direct services for WCCUSD students.

The Business Services Office is bringing forward 1 contract

- Lozano Smith
Increase purchase order for Lozano Smith & Associates for providing legal services as required by the district relating to, but not limited to all resource matters. The District budget was built upon this amount, but the District does not bring forward the full authorization immediately to ensure proper monitoring of budgetary expenses. This purchase order increase is within the operational budget. This increase is for the final quarter of the school year.

The Community Engagement Department is bringing forward one item

- Partners that are providing support for our expanded Summer School Programs that will be available at almost all of our School sites. Some sites will be offering credit recovery while others will offer intervention, lost learning, and mental health services.

We are on a very tight timeline with spring instruction still underway and Summer School starting right after it ends. We are still finalizing and gathering information from principals, we are getting the contracts completed but wanted to bring this information to you before summer school starts.
